Sprint Retrospective

1. Things That Went Well

- Communication between members improved since the previous sprint
- Connection between the frontend and backend code was successful
- Gitflow ran smoothly

2. Things That Could Have Gone Better

- More communication between the product owner and the team
- Ensure a more transparent understanding of the requirements

3. Things That Surprised Us

- We had initially assumed for our website to be providing a single service to customers when the requirement was for the website to allow customers to search for and access multiple types of services
- We had a new member added to our group halfway through this sprint

4. Lessons Learned

- Do not leave clarifications on the project requirements and scope to the last minute
- Ensure clarity between the product owner and the team

5. Final Thoughts

Next sprint we'll be polishing up our main features that we have implemented, along with adding employee functionality.
